

WORK RELATED LOW BACK PAIN: SECONDARY INTERVENTION

Stover H. Snook, Ph.D.
Harvard School of Public Health

Non-specific low back pain is an age-related disorder that is affected by differences in occupation, genetics, and personal behavior

Diagnosis and Treatment of Low Back Pain

2003 STAR Symposium

Do not copy or reproduce in any form

Secondary Intervention

2003 STAR Symposium

Do not copy or reproduce in any form

Risk Factors for Low Back Disability

- Increasing Age
- Occupational Factors
- Psychosocial Factors
- Health Care Providers
- Management
- Organized Labor
- Compensation Insurance

Reducing Low Back Disability

- Workplace Redesign
- Proactive Return-to-Work Program
- Communication
- Selection of Health Care Providers
- Management Commitment
- Supervisor Training
- Coordination with Organized Labor