

OSHA 2255

Principles of Ergonomics

This course covers the use of ergonomics principles to recognize, evaluate, and control workplace conditions that cause or contribute to musculoskeletal and nerve disorders.

Topics include: physical ergonomics; how musculoskeletal disorders develop; workplace factors; workplace design; identifying risk factors; and ergonomic controls for specific industries.

Course highlights include: industrial case studies; analysis and design of workstations and equipment; hands-on sessions on manual lifting; and coverage of current OSHA compliance policies.

Course Date: December 12th - 14th, 2017

Course Times: 8:00 am - 5:00 pm (12th, 13th)
8:00 am - 12:00 pm (14th)

Location: The Ohio State University
Center for Occupational Health in Automobile Manufacturing (COHAM)
1314 Kinnear Road
Columbus, Ohio

Cost: $675

Credit Awarded:
1.9 CEU

Registration Info

Online: www.midamericaosha.org

Email: coordinator@midamericaosha.org

Phone: 866.444.4412

Fax: 937.704.9394

